On His Frequency

I was at the point where I couldn't take one more day of this life. I was so sad about my life choices and honestly thought, "Could I have heard God wrong"? I have been beating down doors for two years to get into radio here. Maybe He didn't mean for me to leave my family back in L.A. and move here.

I thought for weeks that I should visit the prayer chapel but my pride kept me from going in. Then on a Wednesday night in the middle of March, I went into the prayer chapel, sat there alone and cried like I have not cried before.

A prayer minister walked in and asked if he could sit with me - I tried to smile but all I could do was cry. He insisted on sitting with me and praying, even after I refused three times. He prayed over things that I didn't even tell him about. That night I truly surrendered myself to God, and within two days, my life was transformed.

On the same day I was asked to co-host the morning show on Cities 97 and to audition for a full time gig on 100.3 KTLK as the morning girl. If you know anything about radio this is the most amazing position to get...truly my life's dream. This is still in the auditioning stages but looks like it is going to happen. I give all the glory to God and thank God for our Prayer Pastors! This has been an amazing two weeks!
